

Martha's Art – Disclaimer

Copyright

Everything on this site is copyrighted unless otherwise noted.

The Copyright Law protects Copyright Artists in their original works of art.

All Viewers should be aware that the copyrights of works of art located in this website remain the sole property of the artist.

Copyright is administered by Martha's Art, the Artist, or their agents. Artwork may be viewed for buyer's browsing purposes only, and may not be downloaded without written authorization. Reproduction of any of the artwork on this website for any reason is not permitted without first receiving written permission from Martha's Art, the Artist or their agents.

Under the Copyright Law, it is fair use to reproduce a single copy for personal or educational purposes, provided that no changes are made to the content and provided that a copyright notice attesting to the content is attached to the reproduction. Beyond that, no further copies of works of art may be made or distributed on this website without written permission.

Martha's Art owns the copyright of all other aspects of the website, including the text, photos, and design of the website, unless otherwise noted.

Disclaimer

All artwork displayed on this website is representative of the pieces produced by Martha's Art. While every effort is made to keep information on artwork up to date, some of the artwork featured on this site may not be for sale in its original form, but all artwork available for prints and/or merchandise is properly identified in the web page. Contact us if you need more details on a particular artwork, want to request a special edition of it, or are interested in a commissioned work. The artworks are originals, not reproductions, and are not digital art.

It is important to us that you are happy with the products you have purchased through Martha's Art website. If you have any questions or concerns, please don't hesitate to Contact us. We always welcome direct contact with interested buyers and it may be quicker to resolve any queries in advance than after delivery.

All the works exhibited in this webpage are photographs of the original pieces. Every care has been taken to show the artwork as accurately as possible with regard to size and color. The image you see online may show a difference due to slight variation between browsers, devices and screen settings. Any variation between the image represented and the actual artwork is not deemed a fault and slight inconsistencies will not be a valid reason for return.

Martha's Art reserves the right to add artwork to or remove it from the website without notice. Changes or updates to the content of this site may occur without prior notice. No content on this site will add or modify any contract for products or services you may have with Martha's Art.